Activity Name:	Understanding and Responding to Childhood Suicidal Ideation
Learning outcomes	• Examine the contributing factors of childhood distress and despair that can lead to suicidal ideation. • Support practitioners to identify and address barriers that prevent children from being heard and understood. • Demonstrate how practitioners can actively recognise and highlight children's skills, knowledge, and expertise.
Time spent engaged in the activity:	(including completing this form)

After watching or listening to the activity, consider the following:

1. What were three key messages that were covered in the activity?

2. Identify your learning goal and how the activity's content aligned with that goal.

3. What actions are you going to take to use the learnings to improve and/or change your practice? For example:
   - Explore the topic further in a supervision session or with a peer/colleague
   - Identify and read the latest research
   - Undertake additional courses, study or training
   - Search MHPN's webinar or podcast libraries for more PD content
   - Join an MHPN network to connect with other practitioners for networking, peer support or PD

4. Please note any other reflections on the topic or activity.
