Activity Name: Assessment and engagement with infants and children

Learning outcomes

- Outline practical strategies to consider a 'whole child' approach to your work with children so that their hopes and goals are prioritised rather than focusing on problems and conditions.
- Identify strategies that will help children and parents feel more engaged, and less anxious, regarding their engagement with you from the first possible opportunity.
- Discuss ways that assessment protocols can shift from seeing children as naïve and inarticulate about what is challenging in their lives, to respecting them as knowledgeable about both problems and potential solutions.
- Outline how to include parents in assessment in ways that honour their importance in their child's life.
